BEVERLY HILLS, Sept. 30 /PRNewswire/ - Miami has kicked off this season in style with mega events including Art Basel Miami Beach, Art Deco Weekend, Coconut Grove Arts Festival and the Miami International Boat Show.

Known for its beautiful climate, elegant art deco architecture, international cuisine and celebrity chefs, Miami has a diversity of delights to please the tastes of every luxury traveler.

For the sport enthusiasts, the city has plenty to brag about. The area is home to some of the most difficult golf courses in the world and has the only public beach golf course in the Continental U.S. If you need a reason to root for someone then attend a Miami HEAT, Miami Dolphins or Florida Marlins game and don't forget NASCAR and the PGA visit annually.

Miami also has an appeal to families with a children's museum, alligator farm, and family friendly beaches for water activities.

Miami International Airport statistics show that arrivals in October 2007 had increased a whopping 36.2% compared to a year earlier, proof of Miami's rising stature as not just a beach resort, but a cosmopolitan center.

"The great thing about Miami is that it can be anything you want it to be," notes independent luxury villa agent Wolf Worster. "The fact is Miami is a place that has always been in style, but lately it's on fire! We have seen a substantial increase in requests for Miami, especially at very top end. Villa bookings in the $50,000 range are our specialty - waterfront estates that come fully equipped with infinity pool, tennis court, security, private chef and a host of other amenities. It's the ultimate way to visit Miami."

Wolf Worster Associates is an independent luxury villa service that provides short-term high-end property rentals throughout the world. "Think of us as head hunters for the best vacation estates in the world," says Wolf. "Our focus is our clients, and finding them the most suitable villa rental together with the services accorded these elite locations. It's worlds away from the standard list of homes one can find at any number of websites."
